great wines from the world's greatest houses

bailly lapierre — france

In Auxerrois, at the northern limits of Burgundy, Bailly Lapierre produces refreshing, balanced, and serious sparkling wines from a unique and distinctive terroir. The sparkling wines of Burgundy, known as “Crémant”, have gained attention and affection from leading som-meliers as outstanding value alternatives to the more costly Champagne. Bailly Lapierre’s are particularly appealing in this regard as their proximity to the vineyards of Champagne results in stylistic similarities.

crémant de bourgogne réserve brut nv

Grown from the inimitable terroir of northern Burgundy, and cellared in an ancient quarry 50m below the same bedrock that gives Bailly Lapierre its hallmark chiselled minerality, this classic Réserve is full and round, with a rich and varied bouquet, and a clean, fresh finish. 30% Aligoté, 30% Chardonnay, 20% Pinot Noir, and 20% Gamay.

“A bright and complex nose with some youthful pure fresh fruit, apple blossom and elderflower and a nuance of rich butter. A lovely aromatic palate that is fresh and linear with great harmony and impressive length.”
